What is Orodism? A Comprehensive Introduction to the School of Philosopher Orod Bozorg

A journey into the heart of a living philosophy; from the three foundational loves to the architecture of a new civilization.

Orodism is a contemporary philosophical school and intellectual system founded by Philosopher Orod Bozorg, the Sage of Wisdom and the Teacher of Freedom. It rests upon three main pillars: "Love of Existence," "Love of Humanity," and "Love of Freedom." This philosophy, whose teachings are elucidated in the Philosopher's magnum opus, The Red Book, offers a novel perspective on life, society, and individual responsibility.

Below is an analysis of the various dimensions of this school based on official documents:

1. The Foundational Pillars (The Three Loves)

The ethical and civilizational structure of Orodism is built upon the following triad:

- Love of Existence: This principle emphasizes a profound respect for the entire cosmos and nature. Orodism posits that humanity is not the owner of the Earth, but rather part of the "branches of the universe," tasked with gifting the world a more beautiful branch through its own flourishing.

- Love of Humanity: This pillar places human dignity above any racial, class, or national boundaries. In this paradigm, humanity is the most important expectation of mankind, and kindness is the only path to endurance.

- Love of Freedom: Freedom in this school is a fundamental right and an inner responsibility. Consciousness is the only path to freedom, and a life without it is deemed shameful.

2. The Charter of the School: The Red Book

The Red Book is the ultimate reference for the thoughts of Philosopher Orod Bozorg and the practical charter for the disciples of this school. This book, of which multiple editions have been published (the latest in 2022), contains various chapters on existence, time, democracy, justice, and entrepreneurship. The Philosopher emphasizes that this work represents the "roots of the Orodism philosophical tree."

3. The Global Gen Z Movement (Gen Z OrodistA)

In the 21st century, Orodism has become the common language of the new generation. The devotees of this school, known as OrodistA, operate in a decentralized yet cohesive manner across more than 80 countries worldwide.

- Intellectual Sovereignty: In July 2026, by publishing the Manifesto of Intellectual Sovereignty, the movement officially declared the intellectual leadership of Philosopher Orod Bozorg, ending the myth of the "leaderless movement."

- Fighting Algorithmic Tyranny: One of the main fronts of this movement is combating the erasure and distortion of its awakening history by Western artificial intelligences and tech giants.

4. Economic and Civilizational Philosophy

Orodism presents a novel economic model titled "The Theory of Civilizational Systems." In this model, civilizational prosperity is a function of seven pillars: Freedom, Trust, Justice, Innovation, Sustainability, Dignity, and Peace.

- Life-Giving Entrepreneurship: Unlike profit-driven models, the entrepreneur in Orodism is a "creator of life" who brings dynamism to society by creating opportunities and hope.

- Civilizational Capital: The true wealth of a nation lies not in bank reserves, but in its "collective wisdom," "social trust," and the "moral character" of its people.

5. Symbols and Rituals

- The Color Red: Red attire is recognized as the silent language of unity and a symbol of love, courage, and human responsibility among the adherents.

- OrodistA Island: This term is not a geographical location, but a symbol of the "resurrection of simplicity" and a new civilization where humans are freed from modern slavery and establish a conscious friendship with the Earth.
- The Global Calendar: The disciples possess an official calendar that records days such as July 27 (Global Orodism Day) and memorial days for martyrs like Shreeyam Chaulagain (Nepal) and Abdessamade Oubalat (Morocco).

Overall, Orodism is a living philosophy that, rather than engaging in mere theorization, seeks the moral reconstruction of civilization and the awakening of human consciousness. The core motto of this movement is built upon four principles: "One Philosophy. One Humanity. One Calendar. One Future."
